

DJ BIO

Kane Juan (Subkulture - New York)

Born and bred in Singapore, Kane was drawn into electronica in the early 90s. Back then, while still grooving to the sounds of the likes of "Capella", he distinctly remembers Nick Warren's "Cream Live 2" cd being a defining force in his musical taste.

In September 2001, Kane played his first record in Singapore. It was, after all, only a matter of time that he moved from the dancefloor into the DJ booth. Eight months after he first set his hands on a turntable, he got his first real gig on May 9, 2002, at Opaline in New York City – and he has never looked back.

He currently holds a monthly residency with Subkulture, which recently moved to the new and improved Leopard Lounge in New York. In January and February 2006, he was invited to play at Pacha (NYC's newest superclub), not once, but twice, at events that showcased the best local DJs in NYC. He also played his first international gig at El Quijote in Punta Del Este, Uruguay in January 2003.

In a relatively short span of time, Kane has graced the decks at nightspots all over New York City, most notably at Pacha, The Sullivan Room, Filter 14 and Opaline. He has also been featured on Proton Radio several times, even opening for D-Formation on one occasion.

His willingness to play with anyone, anywhere, anytime has seen him share turntables with a big variety of DJs. This has also allowed him to be fortunate enough to play alongside talented DJs like Chris & Kai, Mazi, Bruno Gervais, Markus Mehta, David Hollands and David Duriez.

Innovative with the different aspects of house, Kane weaves tribal-spanish house with tech-elements sprinkled with a dash of deep house and progressive elements. Always trying to expand the boundaries of his music, he loves using dubby and groovy sounds to build a vibe, and then unleashing the Iberican sound taking the crowd to new heights.

Presently, there is nothing that Kane enjoys more than being behind the decks and making people put their hands in the air and dance. With gigs in Los Angeles and Barcelona on the horizon, it certainly looks like he's following the right path.
